Cape Breton Fiddle Music

for the

Beginner to Advanced Fiddler

Compiled by

Sandy MacIntyre

The contents of this music book will be used strictly for educational purposes with respect to teaching Cape Breton fiddling techniques while simultaneously preserving our heritage and culture. We are passing along to students only the cost of production and printing. This book will not be retailed and no profit will be realised.

A special thank you to Kate Dunlay and David Reich for granting me permission to copy tunes from their "Traditional Celtic Fiddle Music of Cape Breton" as played by various Cape Breton fiddlers. Thanks also to my good friend and fellow Cape Breton fiddler John Donald Cameron for allowing me to copy tunes from his "Heather Hill Collection" featuring tunes composed by his late uncle Dan R. MacDonald, one of Cape Breton's finest fiddlers and world renowned composer of Cape Breton fiddle music. I am greatly indebted to Joseph (Joey) Beaton for contributing some of his compositions which have become such popular favourites among Cape Breton fiddlers. Joey is one of Cape Breton's premier pianists and composers and a long-time friend of the undersigned. These aforementioned books contain many more tunes than included here. A special thanks to Wilfred Gillis for his classic composition "The Golden Rod Jig" (page 104).

I am pleased to share with you a number of tunes composed by the late Charlie Sherrit whom I had the pleasure of meeting several times over the past number of years during my trips to Scotland. Charlie was a very fine gentleman who composed hundreds of fine tunes and shared with everyone.

Also, thanks to my Toronto fiddle students who contributed to this book by computer typesetting tunes - namely, Tom Hutchinson, Rob Wilson and Wil Macaulay. Thanks especially to Tom Hutchinson for giving generously of his time and talent. Tom typeset most of the traditional music in this book making it easy to read and accessible to the fiddle student. Rob Wilson planned and developed the layout and indexing of the book. Thanks, Rob, for your hard work and patience which made this collection possible. The cover of this book was designed and produced by Corey Rudderham. Thanks Corey!

ARPEGGIOS

Much of the melody in our music (and as is the case with jigs and hornpipes generally) is based on arpeggio patterns - in other words, on the notes that, if played at the same time, would make up a chord. An arpeggio consists of the first, third and fifth notes of the relevant scale. The following are some 2-octave arpeggios that would be very useful to practice. For the keys of A, G and B flat the key note (the first) is at the bottom and top of the arpeggio. For the keys of D, C, F and E flat, in order to play a 2-octave pattern within first position, we start with the third or fifth.
